

case study

Harley Drilling & Producing - Jason Klauss, bookkeeper

summary:

Needed an easier way to track their well production and disbursements, as well as handle the tax and year-end requirements needed in the industry

product:

Accounting Manager (AM)

problem:

Harley Drilling & Producing needed a way to track the production and disbursements easier, for the wells they invested in and operated. They essentially were looking for the best possible way of making the bookkeeper's job easier.

solution:

With the Accounting Manager, everything could be tracked in one location. The reports are able to be converted to Excel spreadsheets and can be pulled up in minutes or seconds, as opposed to hours or days of handwritten information previously.

result:

Time, money and a more efficient accounting system has been saved with SherWare's accounting software.

"The software has more than paid for itself when you consider the hours of work you save for the bookkeeper along with accountant fees," said Jason Klauss, bookkeeper at Harley Drilling & Producing. "Plus we don't have to stay up to date on reporting, Sherware has done that for us."

"It is really the easiest decision you could make," he said. "Since it is a yearly renewal, there is really nothing to lose. You will get a return on your investment for the software, and Sherware has one of the best support teams I have seen. I am yet to have a question that is not answered incredibly fast. It makes my job easier and helps our company to run more efficiently."
